Bitcoins Mined – Page 37 & 39

4.5.1 The price of a Bitcoin

As Bitcoin has no central issuer or regulator, the value of Bitcoins is highly volatile, the price of Bitcoins is purely driven by supply and demand for Bitcoins.

Bitcoin Group believes that the increasing Bitcoin Network's value will have a flow on effect in supporting current Bitcoin prices, therefore ensuring the a sizable market opportunity for sustained participation in the Bitcoin Mining as an industry.

As at 30 November 2015, the value of a Bitcoin is US$376.24 or AU$523.36¹⁴.

4.5.3 Number of Bitcoins that Bitcoin Group has Mined

The table below sets out the number of Newly Minted Bitcoins mined by Bitcoin Group between July and December 2015 compared to the estimate produced by the expression at Section 4.5.2.

Mining Period Starting	Total Hashrate Output of Bitcoin Group (A)	Total Newly Minted Bitcoins available per Period (B)	Total Hashrate of the Bitcoin Network (C)	Estimated Bitcoins Mined *	Actual Bitcoins entitlement 	Variance
Jul 11 to Jul 24 2015	6,036	54,000	365,619	891.49	891.12	-0.04%

China accounts for over 80% of all new crypto mined.

It is estimated that 60% of the production of new bitcoins is from 4 gigantic mining farms

One of these 4 mining companies is BW, which has produced around 300,000 Bitcoin, 1.5 million Litecoin and 2 million

Negativity online:

THE AGENTS OF DISINFORMATION AND DECEIT

How Do the MLM Review Websites Such as BehindMLM.com Operate?

These review websites first lay a trap by publishing a biased and defamatory article on the target MLM brand or company. After that, they populate these blog posts with more derogatory and made-up comments using a dummy and anonymous set of profiles controlled by the same group of people who run the said review website. What happens next is easy for anyone to guess.

Upon seeing the articles, the MLM companies get forced to reach out to the review website. At that point, the so-called journalists running these bogus review websites share their prices with the company for taking down the negative blog posts. If the company dares not to agree with them, the review website continues to barrage its brand with more negative articles in the subsequent weeks or months.

"Take a handful of cow crap and throw it against the barn, and some of it is going to stick, eventually."

In the end, either the company caves in and coughs up the extortion money that these journalistic gangs demand or weather away from the MLM scene. The greediest of these blogs is, of course, BehindMLM.com. It isn't a genuine online review blog, and people have known it for many years. I have heard the stories of BehindMLM.com behaving like a rabid dog, going after any and every MLM company until they don't get their share of the ransom.
